

Camp Nawakwa Improvements Keep Pace With Spiritual, Social, Educational Plans

By Rev. George H. Berkheimer
Director of Camp Nawakwa

The improvements to Camp Nawakwa property have kept pace with the development of the educational, social and spiritual program of the camp.

During the years 1947-1948 a total of $35,000 was expended on the improvement program. Many of these improvements have a direct bearing upon the health of the Camp. They include:

1. Installation of a walk-in electric refrigerator 10x10x7.
2. Installation of an automatically controlled turbine pump.
3. Laying new water mains throughout entire camp area.
4. Installation of fluorescent lighting in library, assembly hall, class rooms and office.
5. New library chairs.
6. Modern disposal system including the laying of 5,000 feet of 6-in. transite pipe, building large cement septic tank and digging of sump.

Other improvements have added to the attractiveness and usefulness of the camp property. They include:

1. Resurfacing of all camp roads.
2. Erection of stone Council Circle.
3. Placing 5-ft. extension to each of the twenty-five camper's cabins. One half of the addition will be used to provide locker space for each camper. The other half accommodates toilet and lavatory facilities.

4. Purchase of twenty-five Simmons double-deck bunks with mattresses.

5. Installation of four batteries of showers with hot and cold water.

6. Installation of similar improvements in the three faculty cabins, hospital, chef's cabin and K. P. cabins.

7. Extension to Upper Temple to accommodate an additional one hundred worshippers.

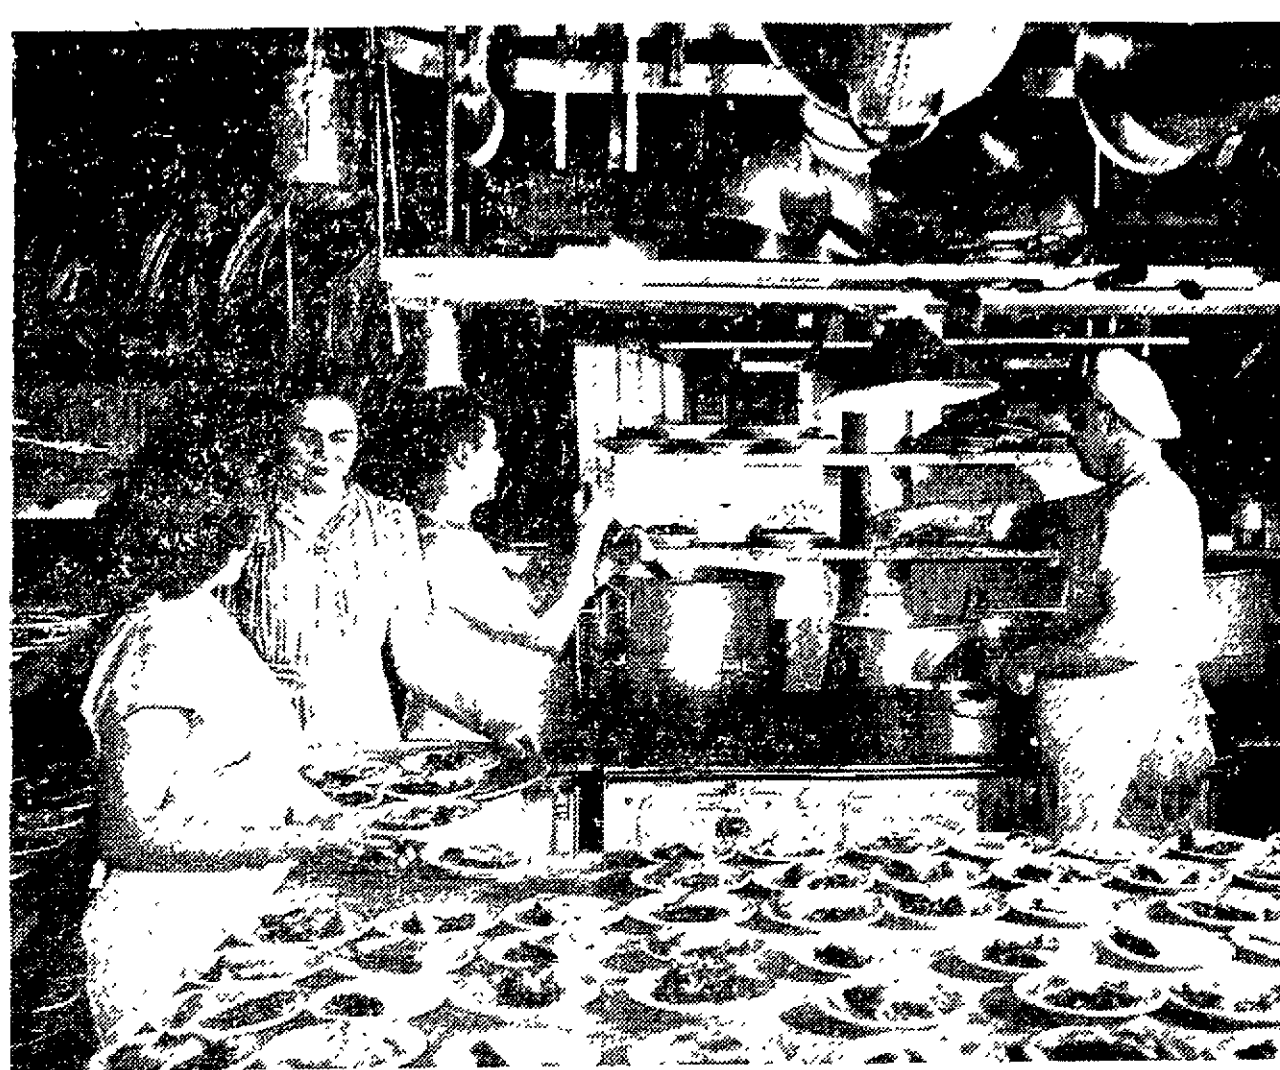

Future Improvements

The program of improvements for the future calls for the following:

1. Erection of new faculty lodge to accommodate twenty guests.
2. Enlarging and improving the swimming pool.
3. Hard-surfacing the four tennis courts.
4. Electric stove for kitchen.
5. Craft center.
6. Addition to dining room with tables to accommodate individual cabin group.

It is estimated that the above program will cost around $25,000. The work of excavation for the faculty lodge will begin in the fall.

Mess Hall Is Most Popular

As you might guess the most popular place in camp is the mess hall. There are five K. P. girls and four K. P. boys. The chef is Mr. William Houser. The assistant chef is Mr. Ira Wilson.

A typical day's consumption of food would be sixty loaves of bread, one hundred pounds of potatoes, ten gallons of vegetables, one hundred pounds of meat and twenty gallons of spaghetti or its equivalent.

The K. P. boys scrub the mess hall floor twice a week, wait on tables, etc. The girls take the eyes out of potatoes, clean the celery, and wait on tables when the boys have off. The girls get one day off a week, and the boys one day every two weeks. So, we see that all K. P.'s and chefs work hard to get us wonderful meals.

CAMP TO HAVE NEW SONGBOOK

Have you heard the latest? A Camp Nawakwa song book is on the way—in fact, it is in the hands of the printer. You will be amazed to find words and music for all those songs you sang this summer and the past 20 seasons—totaling at least 100. The section of folk songs and singing games is interesting because every country is represented and directions will be included with the singing games.

Of course, you will sing the non-sense songs time and time again—"The Billboard Song," "I'm a Nut," "Mine Hand on Myself," etc. But to a Nawakwan, the inspirational songs, negro spirituals.

In addition to Nawakwa songs, negro spirituals and graces will be included. The most important feature of the book will be the empty spaces where new songs can be added through the years.

"Music hath powers to soothe the savage beast." How true at Nawakwa when 200 youngsters are screaming and stamping their feet one minute and the next, turning your heart over with a perfectly beautiful rendition of "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder." An excerpt from Laurel Pierce's poem "I Am Music" expresses this thought:

I'm a great enchanting roll:

All emotions, I control:

I'm the root of men's soul.

I am Music.

I can create low and high:

I can make men laugh and cry:

Or to war—to fight and die.

I am Music.

Camps For 1948

Present indications are that the total attendance at Camp Nawakwa for the year 1948 will exceed that of any other year in the camp's twenty year history.

A total of 1,619 individual campers have attended camp already conducted this season or are registered to attend remaining camps. They include: Junior Girls, June 14-21—264; Junior Boys, June 21-28—232; Intermediate Boys, June 28-July 5—245; Senior Boys, July 6-19—245; Intermediate Girls, July 19-29—259; Senior Girls, July 27-August 9—192; Senior Boys, August 10-23—195; and Summer School for Church Workers, August 23-30—77.

A survey of attendance figures at three year intervals for the twenty year period reveal the following interest in the work of Camp Nawakwa: 1929—358; 1932—415; 1935—633; 1938—600; 1941—1,008; 1944—1,292; 1947—1,466; 1948—1,619.

Camp has enjoyed a steady growth. It has been a normal development, expanding on a foundation well laid. It may be said that the service of the camp helps Nawakwa to grow still more.

Hungry Campers

Could it be possible that those campers are even hungrier now than

ACTIVITIES OF CAMP DAY ARE MANY, VARIED

BY MRS. SALLY GROVE MYERS
Swimming Instructor

Surely that can't be the bugle already! But—(yawn)—it must be. Everybody's getting up. Better hurry—only three minutes until the warning bell for flag raising and dip!

And so another day begins at Camp Nawakwa. Within a matter of seconds (it seems) after reveille sounds, some of those eager-beaver campers are into their swimming suits and on their way to the pool. It's always fun to see if you can make it before the instructor!

At the ringing of the two-bell signal, late-comers (and once in a while there are a few) stop in their tracks and the flag is raised. Following the flag salute and set-ups (those much needed warm-up exercises) the hardy souls brave the icy waters for their morning dip.

Br-r-r-rr—who said July was a hot month? What a "waker-upper!"

"Commune With God"

Somehow there seems to be enough time for dressing and hair-combing before the next bell, and a few speedy campers manage to make their beds. But even if a few hairs are still out of place, no one ever takes time to fix them when the Morning Watch bell sounds. That period of quiet individual meditation under the trees is the truly spiritual start of the day, and it sets the "tone" for all that comes after it. How beautiful it is to commune with God through Bible reading and prayer under the stately pines. Some say this is the best time of a Nawakwa day.

And then once more the camp becomes noisy and filled with movement, for it's breakfast time. K. P.'s must really step to keep those cocoa pitchers and hot cereal bowls filled. Appetites are keen after a night of sleep in that mountain air. But in spite of all the time spent in the consuming of apple butter and bread, there's still time for singing.

Each tribe is anxious to make itself heard, and of course, the general camp songs come in for their share in the fun too. MacNamara and Sadi Kazinstsky are characters to be reckoned with—can't forget them!

Rigid Inspections

There's good reason for the hustle and bustle of post-breakfast moments. Tribes and cabin groups are busy yielding the brooms. The camp grounds and buildings must look their best for inspection. "Pussies" are nice animals, but when they're fuzzy bits of dirt under a camper's bed, those snoopy inspectors like to show them how to subtract—and we do mean points.

The bells ring all too soon, and once more all is calm. The time has come for sweeping away a different kind of dirt—mental cobwebs. Classes continue for two periods and include such subjects as nature study, Bible, Christian living, and swimming for the juniors and intermediates. In senior high and leadership camps, courses are pursued which lead to a certificate of graduation from the camp and include both "camp credit" courses and "international credit" courses.

The short assembly period whizzes by all too quickly, what with its gay songs and unusual inspectors' reports. Where do those inspectors get their ideas! Yesterday it was a rummage sale with articles confiscated from each cabin bearing the cabin's points. Today the ventriloquist and his dummy visited the camp and discussed its cleanliness (or lack of it). Who knows what it'll be tomorrow! Maybe a schoolroom with addition problems like 28-20-10 and 3 make 8. Never know what'll be next. Announcements take time too—sometimes a little, sometimes a lot. And then it's back to class again till lunch time.

Evening Devotional

Following the evening meal, the choir rehearses while two tribes shop at the store. Then comes another of the inspirational highlights of a Nawakwa Day—hillside. The evening devotional service was given this name because in the early days of the camp the services were always conducted on the hillside at either Lower Temple or Upper Temple. Recently, the services have also been held at such places as the pool and the athletic field. No matter where the campers go for their hillside service, the routine is similar.

Part of the way is just like a hike with its conversation or singing, but the last part of the approach is made in reverent silence.

As the service progresses, the sun sinks lower and lower in the sky until finally it slips out of sight behind the mountain. Then with day-

Camp Property

Camp Nawakwa comprises 115 acres. The land, buildings and improvements to the property represent an investment of more than $100,000.

A total of 43 buildings have been erected on the grounds. There are 25 cabins with accommodations for 9 campers and one counselor each; hospital with facilities for a full time nurse and three patients; office building with canteen attached; director's cabin; associate director's cabin; faculty lodge with accommodations for ten; assembly hall to seat 350 with five class rooms attached; library to accommodate 180 with three class rooms attached; combined kitchen and dining room with facilities for 300; chef's cabin; K. P. cabin; four buildings with showers; four-car garage; power house; equipment shed; and tool house.

The property has an ample water supply provided by six springs. One has been developed in its natural setting. Others provide the sources for deep wells from which water is pumped for the pool and other camp needs.

they were at breakfast? Must be, cause look at that food disappear. A magician couldn't do as well. Maybe if they ask "real nice," Dr. Mumper will sing his rain song, keeping the hungry campers well-supplied with food, clean the mess-hall after meals, and see that every thing is in readiness for the next meal. Their job also includes such incidentals as disposal of the paper and trash, care of the water system, and general clean-up campaigns.

Every job needs a good boss—and so the camp takes care of this need by hiring as chef William Houser, of Gettysburg also chef at the Lutheran Theological Seminary refectory. Besides overseeing the K. P. staff, he is the man who bakes forty-four pies instead of one or two; who cooks one hundred pounds of potatoes instead of one, and who spends most of his time slaving over a hot stove.

Mix Fun With Work

But a mere enumeration of duties or personalities can only serve as a mere inkling to the reader of the actual life in the Nawakwa kitchen. Having spent several summers in that extremely interesting portion of the camp, I feel well qualified to give one of the best recipes I know for a good time: just take numerous and sundry members of the K. P. staff and ground crew, a few good jokes, equal portions of food and music and mix well together. There might not be a roof on the place when you are finished, but at least you all will be able to understand why in our traditional K. P. songs up here we sing:

"We love it, O how we love it! Wouldn't go home if we could. Being K.P.'s here at Nawakwa That wonderful camp-in-the wood."

light fading and the clouds losing the splendor of their brilliant hues, the day draws peacefully to a close, and God seems very near to each camper.

All too soon that moment of perfect union with divinity passes, and once more it's down into the shadows for the night's activities. For older age groups, a study period precedes "Nites Doings," but for the younger campers, there is only a short break until "Nites Doings" begin. No matter what these may be—treasure hunt, scavenger hunt, folk dancing, stunts, or a party—they're always fun and the campers enjoy them.

This is the big social good time of the day with all its accompanying laughter and jollity. Some nights there's a chance to earn tribal points and competitive feeling runs high, but very often "Nites Doings" are "just for fun"—and they are fun.

The day is almost over now, with only minutes remaining to get ready for bed before Taps bids a good-night and pleasant dreams. With

Fun Is Only Part Of Nawakwa Program

When we think of camping we think of swimming, boating, fishing, play and rest. Work and study are far from our thoughts.

That is typical of all strictly recreational camps. Camp Nawakwa is the exception. Campers have a wonderful time but fun and frolic are just part of a complete camp program. Study and class-room work comprise another and very important phase of camp life at Nawakwa for it is a leadership training camp.

In 1947 the Junior Girls spent a total of 2,273 hours in classes and earned 606 enrichment credits; Junior boys—2,250 hours and 600 enrichment credits; intermediate boys—2,273 hours and 606 enrichment credits; senior boys—5,340 hours, 225 enrichment credits and 251 standard units; intermediate girls—2,250 hours and 600 enrichment credits; senior girls—11,730 hours, 599 enrichment credits and 539 standard units; and, the Leadership Training Camp—1,840 hours, 84 enrichment credits and 119 standard units.

Campers spent 27,956 hours in classes in 1947, and earned 3,320 enrichment credits and 909 standard units.

EARLY RISINGS AT NAWAKWA FOR K.P. DUTY

MISS SHIRLEY GARMAN
Dining Room Hostess

Br-r-r-ring—and the piercing tones of the family alarm clock shrill through the house, rousing the wife and mother of the household to her duties as chief cook and bottle-washer. At the same time, deep in the camp-in-the-woods (Nawakwa) similar alarm clocks are summoning the eleven members of the kitchen force to breakfast preparations for the camp family.

But at this point most of the similarity ends—a little matter of some three hundred people makes all the difference in the world. Instead of a leisurely breakfast of toast and coffee, with perhaps a side order of pancakes or ham and eggs, the K. P. boys and girls put in at least an hour of work before they are able to snatch a hasty bite of breakfast.

Girls Prepare Meals

The K. P. girls, four or five in number, have as their first job in the morning the blinding of the potatoes—in other words, taking out their eyes. After this inspirational job is completed, they turn their attention to such little incidentals as the preparation of vegetables and fruits, assisting with the baking, preparing the desserts, and drying dishes—also doing anything else that might be necessary.

Besides getting up at six in the morning, a shivering in their skins, the K. P. boys serve in the mess-hall, keeping the hungry campers well-supplied with food, clean the mess-hall after meals, and see that every thing is in readiness for the next meal. Their job also includes such incidentals as disposal of the paper and trash, care of the water system, and general clean-up campaigns.

"GOOD HEALTH" CARE FACTOR AT CAMP NAWAKWA

By SISTER LOUISE BURROUGHS
Camp Instructor

Every nurse and every student of hygiene is aware that obedience to certain essentials is necessary if good health is desired. Some folks pursue these essentials with dogged determination, using check lists to be sure that no essential is overlooked. Others, more fortunate, seek an environment and a mode of life in which the essentials are always present. Nawakwa is an excellent example of such a situation.

First on the list of "the seven essentials of good health" at Nawakwa are fresh air and sunshine; fresh air, untainted by smoke or odors; sunshine, unhindered by towering buildings or dust-filled streets. Campers swim, play, study, work, and worship in God's lovely out-of-doors with constant exposure to His rich gifts of the sun and the air.

Fresh Air, Sunshine

Hand in hand with fresh air and sunshine is exercise. At Nawakwa, the exercise is geared to the camper's wants and needs. Most prominent is the pool, filled with clear and sparkling clean water from the camp's own springs. Swimming instructors teach beginners how to swim, hold classes for improvement of advanced swimmers, and instruct the expert swimmers in the art of life-saving. Swim periods are restricted as to length of time and the swimmers are carefully watched so that no camper's health suffers from over-indulgence in this sport.

Hand-ball, badminton, shuffleboard, archery, and a variety of other team games contribute to the fulfillment of that essential to health called exercise.

A natural sequence to exercise is hunger. Campers are always hungry enough to eat nearly anything, and it is therefore important that the meals are planned with a view to providing all the elements which are necessary to a well-balanced diet, as well as to satisfy the hunger. The camp chef, with his staff, serves nourishing, attractive and more than adequate meals to hundreds each summer; thus another essential, good food, is part of the camp's program for health.

Ample Water Supply

Health without water would be impossible. Camp Nawakwa abounds in springs which are the source of all the water used in camp. Each cabin has running water piped to it. A fountain bubbles merrily in the center of the camp grounds, and at the end of a short walk is the spring, a white flint arch and enclosure around a cool spring of pure water, always ready to quench thirst.

Nawakwa offers such endless possibilities for recreation and development of each camper, that there is an ever present temptation to overdo. Again in accordance with the seven essentials for good health, the Camp program avoids this danger by adhering to a rest hour in the afternoon, and to a schedule which permits adequate hours of sleep each night.

The problem of sanitation, too, has been solved at Nawakwa. Each cabin has a separate room equipped with flush toilet and wash basin with running water. Health authorities have approved the disposal system, and no health hazard presents itself due to inadequate facilities.

Safety Precautions

Fresh air and sunshine, exercise, food, water, rest, sanitation—these six are important, but they are not enough to meet the standards of health maintained at Nawakwa. Accidents can happen to even the most healthy of campers. Nawakwa educates the campers in prevention through its counselors and faculty who act as friendly supervisors of all camp life; it teaches emergency care through Red Cross First Aid clubs; it provides a registered nurse in charge of a well-equipped hospital cabin. And if serious illnesses or accidents should occur, doctors in a nearby community are always on call.

Thus the physical needs of the campers are answered. Yet this does not conclude the health program at Camp. Every good list of the essentials for healthful living includes mental hygiene as a requirement. Our attitudes to ourselves and to our fellowmen are important to health. Opportunities to work and play and worship together are necessary. The ability to adjust to a program, to adapt one's self to the wishes of others, to participate in work that has an unselfish motive—all these contribute to a healthy mental outlook on life. In this sphere, Nawakwa reaches a high point of achievement, and through its program of four-fold development strives constantly to show an ever better way of life.

Physical, mental, social and spiritual good health are the goal of all Nawakwa!

So ends this Nawakwa day—one of many days, and everyone a good one—a day full of contrasts—play and study; activity and stillness; gaiety and solemnity; uproarious noises and deep silences.

"All is well, safely rest, God is

Stone Pillars Mark Nawakwa Entrance

The entrance to Camp Nawakwa is marked by two large stone pillars on either side of the driveway. This driveway is flanked by tall pine trees and gives the arriving camper the feeling of entering a thick woodland.

So to the new camper, crossing Nawakwa's threshold for the first time, come mixed emotions. As he beholds the Camp sign, he realizes that he has at last arrived, after what for many campers has been a journey of from three to eight hours.

There are feelings of hope and expectation in every camper's heart. Many have been to Camp Nawakwa before, and are looking forward to reviewing old friendships. The new campers generally have friends or a Pastor back home who have talked Nawakwa to them. They enter the Camp grounds with eagerness, anxious to enjoy the friendships, classes, worship services and games which Nawakwa offers. Also, to these new campers, comes a slight touch of homesickness. But, this feeling is soon erased as strangers become firm friends. They are all eager to make good and so, a thrill passes through every true camper's heart as he arrives at Camp Nawakwa.

Nawakwa Uses R.C. Swimming Standards

By MISS FLORENCE REITZ
Craft Instructor

At any camp, the pool is an important and popular place. Nawakwa is no exception. The present pool, which is 80x35 feet and has a capacity of 278,000 gallons of water, has served well these past twenty years; but a new, enlarged pool is needed and is among one of the first projects of the improvements to be made.

Camp Nawakwa not only offers swimming for recreation; but during the years, has instructed those who desired to learn how to swim or who were interested in improving their skill. The American Red Cross standards are used and skill cards are issued to all who complete the tests.

Since the opening of the camp 1,513 beginners; 1,344 intermediates; 672 swimmers; 168 advanced swimmers; 118 junior life saving and 101 senior life saving skill cards have been issued.

Each year shows an increase in the number of skill tests passed. During the junior girls' junior boys', and intermediate boys' camps of this year 89 beginners; 97 intermediates; 27 swimmers; and 1 advanced swimmer skill cards have been issued.

Camp Laboratory School Successful

Thirteen years ago the idea of having a laboratory school was introduced at Camp Nawakwa. If this was to be a camp for training Christian leaders, why not a place for prospective teachers to actually practice teaching? The place selected for the school was the Lutheran church at Arendtsville. The Reformed church of the town co-operated the children of its congregation to attend and by allowing the children of the school to have special worship services in that church.

Each year during the last two weeks of August four departments of the "Lab" School, Beginners, Primary, Junior and Intermediate are in session. Competent leaders are chosen to direct each department where children of the Church units are used as the basis of work. Only campers attending the Leadership camp are eligible for this practice teaching course. One can see the interest in this course by watching the loaded cars or camp truck pull out of camp each morning for the trip to Arendtsville. The highlight of the school program for the children is the day spent at Nawakwa where they display their handwork, play games, swim in the pool and have refreshments.

CAMP NAWAKWA

wakwa has grown in buildings and in the interest of Lutheran youth. Today there are thousands of young people who have trained here. One minister, whom I know, has been interested in Nawakwa for 29 years and who has served three parishes during that time, told me:

"Without exception those young people have returned to become the leaders in the church. Several have become church councilmen, three have become pastors, three are missionaries to India and Africa and Sunday school teachers among that group, and all who came to Nawakwa have since become the most active members of the church has."

Asset To Church

"Through the years Camp Nawakwa has provided leaders for U. S., Argentine, African, Indian, Chinese, Japanese and Canadian churches. 'And most of these were citizens of those countries who trained here.' The greatest asset the church has, teaching leadership and Christian living are Camp Nawakwa and camps like it, which now stretch from coast to coast."

Rev. George H. Berkeimer, Ardenville, director of the camp, who presided at the anniversary services, pointed out that Nawakwa is an Indian word meaning a "camp in the woods." The Senior Girls' choir sang a number of hymns during the course of the service including the Nawakwa song and "Glory and Honor," the Nawakwa hymn.

Rev. Robert H. Fischer, associate pastor of Zion Lutheran church, Sunbury, and a son of the founder of the camp, pronounced the invocation. Miss LaVene Grove, associate director, read the Scripture lesson and Chaplain Marshall E. Breneman, Carlisle, a former camp director, gave the prayer. A tribute to former leaders was presented by Rev. George I. Melhorn, pastor of Moxham Lutheran church, Johnstown, and Rev. John D. Forrester, associate director of intermediate and senior boys' camps, reported on the improvement program. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Ralph C. SELL, SHRIVER

Sell, selections by the Collegian-aires, a quartet composed of Albert Bair, Harold Sentz, Robert DeGroot and Robert Scholl, "Send Out Thy Light," "Sweet and Low" and "Cindy" all sung a capella.

The speaker was Dr. Arthur Tracy, Hampstead, who was introduced by the president, Stanley R. Sell, Littlestown. Dr. Tracy spoke of Henry Sell, the first Sell to settle in this vicinity and traced the family tree from 1716. Dr. Tracy informed his audience that Henry Sell was one of the makers of petitions for ownership of part of the land known as Diggs Choice, in the vicinity of Hanover. Selections were sung by the male quartet, including "All in the April Evening," "The Wifeproof Song" and "Dry Bones." There were remarks from Matthew W. Sell, Altoona, 80 year old son of the late Rev. James A. Sell, mentioned above, who said that another Sell reunion was being held at the same time in Blair county; remarks by Edward Gobrecht, Hanover, who said that John C. Gobrecht was the first by that name to come to America from Germany in 1753, and that he served the Hanover charge, of which Christ Reformed church was a part, as a minister and that he is buried in Hanover, and remarks by Jacob Sell, Officers Elected.

Election of officers was held with the following results: President, Emory Sell, East Berlin; vice president, William E. Sell, Hanover and secretary-treasurer, Kenneth D. Sell, Littlestown. Committee chairmen were also selected for the reunion next year which will be held on the third Sunday of August at the same place, music and program committee chairman, Mrs. Ralph Unger, near Littlestown; games, William E. Sell, Hanover and prizes, Mrs. John N. Sell. A report of the deaths that occurred in the family since the reunion last year, was heard from a bouquet of gladioli occupied a prominent place in honor of the deceased members; and a moment of silence was observed and prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Hamm. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. George Hiltbrich, 81, Littlestown, the oldest person present; to Mr. and Mrs. Emory Bair, Hanover, the couple married the longest, 49 years; to Margaret Mary Altoff, Littlestown, age nine months, the youngest girl present; to Michael Hoffman, four months old, the youngest boy present; to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Roller, the couple married the shortest period of time, four months; to Mr. and Mrs. John Sell, children, Herbert, Anna Mae, Janet and Betty Lou, Littlestown, the largest family present, and to Peter Sell, Detroit, Mich., for coming the greatest distance to the reunion. Ice cream and soft drinks were provided for all present following the program, after which there was a period of games for children and adults, included soft ball, horseshoe pitching, badminton and peanut scrambles.

Shriver Reunion Held
The descendants of Christian K. and Alice Jane Fisher Shriver, gathered for the first reunion which this clan has held since 1942, at Benner's Grove near Barlow, Sunday. Election of officers was held with the following results: president, Chester Shriver, near Barlow; honorary president, D. Edward Shriver, Hanover; vice president, C. Eugene Shriver, Gettysburg; secretary, Marjorie Reifsnider, Hanover; assistant secretary, Mrs. Martha Haynes, Gettysburg; treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Williams, Gettysburg and historian, Harry C. Shriver, Bethesda, Md.

It was decided to hold the reunion again next year on the third Sunday of August, but the place of the meeting will be changed to Forest Park, Hanover. It was noted that the oldest person present was Annie Landers, 87, Emmitsburg; the second oldest, D. Edward Shriver, 86, Hanover, one of seven brothers who attended the reunions every year for many years prior to 1942; youngest person present, Christine Ann Landow, Greenbelt, Md., six and a half weeks old. Approximately 65 members of the clan were in attendance to enjoy the basket lunch and the games that were planned in the afternoon.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
Soldiers Return: The Regiment of Volunteers arrived at Baltimore on Monday, in two vessels from Vera Cruz, and are encamped at Fort M'Henry. They will soon be discharged from the service. Capt. Barnard's company, in which were the young men from this neighborhood, Messrs. Miller, Walter, Ohler, Titus and Gulden, is among the number. They may, therefore, be expected home in a few days.

Since the above was in type, we learn with regret that three of the young men above mentioned, Messrs. Walter, Titus and Gulden, died on their passage from Mexico, and their remains were consigned to the deep. We sympathize deeply with their friends, who were anxiously awaiting their arrival at home. Of the 7 young men who left this place for the war, but two survive, Messrs. Miller and Ohler. They are at Baltimore.

Married: On the 10th inst., by the Rev. J. Ulrich, Mr. Joseph Fickel, to Miss Susanna Kreiner—all of this county.

Town Meeting: In pursuance of notice a large number of the citizens of the Borough of Gettysburg met on Monday evening, the 14th of August inst., in the Court-house for the purpose of taking into consideration the offer made by Rev. S. S. Schmucker, D.D., relative to the sale of the "Gettysburg Academy."

The meeting was organized by S. S. McCreary being appointed chairman, and Wm. B. McClellan, Secretary.

Dr. S. S. Schmucker, at the request of D. M. Smyser, Esq., made a statement of the facts connected with the purchase and sale of the Gettysburg Academy, for which it was ascertained, if the Borough desired to purchase, it would require at least twenty-one hundred dollars.

On motion of A. R. Stevenson, it was unanimously resolved, that it is inexpedient to accept the proposition made by Dr. S. S. Schmucker.

On motion of D. M. Smyser, Esq., it was resolved that the proceedings of this meeting be published in the different newspapers in the Borough, and that a copy of the same be handed to the Clerk of the Town Council, with a request that the same be inserted in the minutes of the Corporation.

On motion of A. B. Kurtz, Esq., the meeting adjourned.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
New Pole: A new flag staff has been put up in the Soldiers' National Cemetery measuring 105 feet.

A building is also in the course of erection for the housing of the guns during the winter. The house will be 18 feet square. Wm. C. Stallsmith & Son, contractors.

Grand Pic-Nic: There will be a grand Pic-Nic and Fete Champetre at Bonaughton, on Saturday the 30th inst.: Balloon ascension; speech making on current topics. No charge for admission. The public are invited to attend. Ample accommodations for man and beast.

Married: Coble-Heagy—At Lykes Valley, Pa., on the 27th ult., by the Rev. D. Gross, Mr. C. R. Coble, of Williamstown, Dauphin county, to Miss Emma J., daughter of John Heagy, Esq., of New Oxford.

Trump-Davis: On the 15th inst., at the residence of Martin Davis, in Latamere township, by Isaac D. Worley, Esq., William Trump, of York county, to Amanda M. Davis, of Latamere township Adams county.

The Central Pic-Nic will be held in the grove belonging to Mr. Solomon Welty, on the Carlisle road two miles north of Gettysburg on Saturday next, (22d inst.). A large dancing floor with good music and plenty of refreshments on the ground. The public cordially invited.

Base Ball: The challenge of the "Keystone" Club, of New Oxford, was accepted by the "Independents" nine of Gettysburg, and a game was played on Saturday afternoon in New Oxford, resulting in a victory for the Independents. The score:

Today's Talk
JOY IN THE MORNING

All life is in contrasts. Yesterday where I now write it was beautiful—perfect weather. Today it is gray and dull. Sorrow is but the shadow of happiness or of former joy. We learn to appreciate health by an occasional illness. We sleep in darkness to awake in the light.

We can each of us make life well worth while by meeting its every change and emergency in good heart, like a soldier facing battle. For if life isn't a battle, what is it? There is no gospel quite so important as that of willing and brave acceptance.

Self-dependence is a matter of will and selection. We are always happier and stronger for what we do for ourselves. We owe all to ourselves for inner guidance, and this mostly from God's text-book—Nature! All about us are change, decay, renewal and growth. Counterparts of ourselves.

There is far more beauty and encouragement in the world than there is ugliness and disappointment. Our appraisal of values tells the story of our lives, our hopes and our faith. We would not be happy for long with all coming our way. We would grow careless and forgetful. We would become neglectful and unappreciative as well as weak. We need strife and contest to make all effort creative.

There may be darkness in the valley but there is light on the other side of the hills. And in time it floods all space. Eternity is in the moments, no matter where they occur. Learning to live is a continual process. We select its pieces day by day—hour by hour. We learn how educational are pain and defeat.

Poetry is exultant prose. Prose literature would be dull indeed without its poetry. So would life be. You discover them both in nature. In the flower, the stem and leaf—and then the beauty of the bloom! You will recall that statement in the Bible where it says that weeping endureth for a night, but that joy cometh in the morning!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "As We Work"

NORMAL CHILDHOOD
If they were quiet all day long,
And didn't shout when playing,
That something would be wholly wrong
Should go without my saying.
And if they didn't cry in pain
When on the sidewalk falling,
I've said, and say it once again,
We'd have the doctor calling.

If they could play the whole day through
And never start a battle;
If of what one had dared to do
No one came in to tattle;
If they, as we believe they ought,
Met guests with manners formal,
We'd ask the doctor if he thought
Our children could be normal.

There is no doubt the children small
Will frequently upset us.
The toys they strew about the hall
So often seem to fret us.
But if they always did the way
We solemnly advise them,
Some fellow we should want to pay
To psycho-analyze them.

5 DEAD, 137 HURT IN RENO FIRE, BLAST

Reno, Nev., Aug. 16 (AP)—Fire, a shattering explosion and panic among several hundred spectators left a toll of five dead, one missing and 137 injured in Reno's worst tragedy in its history.

The fire broke out about 10 a. m. yesterday in a false-fronted frame and brick building in the old business district. It drew several hundred onlookers, massed around the scene just a few blocks east of the city's gambling quarter.

The sudden explosion and fire killed the fire chief of a nearby city and four men. A sixth, a Reno fireman, was missing. The blast sprayed injury among the spectators. Some were trampled in the rush to get away.

Mysterious Blast
As firemen fought to prevent the blaze from spreading to adjoining buildings, a policeman warned the crowd to get back—that "there's dynamite in there."

"A few of the timid retreated," said John Sanford, city editor of the Reno Gazette. "The rest pushed closer. There was a roar. Smoke, shot through with spurts of flame, blanketed a half block of Lake street."

District Attorney Harold Taber said preliminary investigation disclosed no dynamite involved in the blast.

Taber and Reno detectives joined the fire department in a continuing investigation of the explosion and fire. Property damage was estimated, unofficially, at between $100,000 and $300,000.

Blow Shoes Off
The blast blew out the front of the building, which housed small shops, a vacant cafe and a small rooming house. A slot machine—one of those under repair in one of the shops—when booming across the street. Shoes were blown off some spectators.

While the injured were being rushed to three hospitals, rescue crews went into the still-smoldering ruins of the building to recover the bodies of these five victims:

Fire Chief Frank Hobson, 55, of adjacent Sparks; Capt. Glenn Davis, 35, and Fireman Earl B. Platt, both of the Reno fire department; and two civilian volunteer rescue workers, Domingo Gell, 28, and Bill Byron, about 50.

Missing was Harold Hodson, 26, Reno fireman who had the day off, but who was reported to have gone to the blaze.

Garden Activities For August Listed

To keep annuals blooming, be sure to pick them freely: do not permit them to go to seed.

Allow leaves to remain on pruned tomato plants because the fruit ripens best when not exposed to the sun's rays. Continue spraying or dusting.

Cut off flower stems of the hardy lupines just as soon as they have lost their beauty, to preserve the strength of the mother plants.

Prune old flower clusters from everblooming clematis and polyanthus roses to encourage all-season bloom.

Give gladiolus plants a thorough watering each week until blooming time.

Stop pinching outdoor chrysanthemum plants. Give the plants an application of a complete plant food. When watering, do the job early enough so the foliage will dry before nightfall.

Sow fresh delphinium seed as soon as it is available.

Oriental poppies that become dormant may be divided and replanted. Start a compost heap now while lawn clippings and other material are abundant.

Spring-planted trees and shrubs must not be neglected in spite of the fact that they may appear to have become established. New root growth is probably still too scant to supply moisture when hot summer weather comes. Whenever there is a little rainfall soak the trees thoroughly at ten-day to two-week intervals. The soil around them should be mulched as far as the branches reach to help preserve soil moisture.

SWEDEN MAKES SURPRISE SHOW, HAS 17 FIRSTS

London, Aug. 16 (AP)—American athletes were far and away the biggest point winners in the Olympic games which ended here Saturday, but it was Sweden which almost stole the show.

The versatile Swedes finished second to the Americans in all sports point totals as well as in the chief single sport, track and field.

The United States triumph was expected, as befitting one of the world's biggest, richest, best fed nations. But the spectacular showing of the Swedes was amazing for a country with less than 7,000,000 population.

In scoring 353 points to America's 662, the Swedes surpassed such big game, traditionally athletic nations as France, which was third with 230 1/2 points, Hungary which was fourth with 201 1/2, Italy, fifth with 183, Great Britain, sixth with 170. All in all, the Swedes picked up 17 first places.

The Americans, of course, won the most gold medals, 38, and ranked first on a team basis in this wide variety of sports: men's track and field, men's and women's swimming, basketball, yachting, weight lifting and shooting (tied with Sweden). American teams were close up in several other classes of competition, including rowing, canoeing, horse riding and free style wrestling.

Muffins for breakfast can be made quickly if the dry ingredients are measured and sifted the night before.

NOW IS TIME TO SOW SEEDS OF BIENNIALS

As August reaches midway, the list of biennial and perennial seeds which can be sown advantageously narrows down considerably from the list of the previous month. The time remaining until continuous cold weather sets in is hardly more than 100 days, and by that time the plants must be well rooted, even if the top growth may still be fairly small. The late fall days represent an especially important period in the life of the plants because root activity continues for quite some time after the foliage has stopped growing.

All efforts should be concentrated on a group of seven, of which five are of major importance. They are delphinium, pansies, oriental poppies; hollyhock and sweet william. Of secondary importance are forget-me-nots and bellis or English daisies. All of these are easy to grow from seed, especially if a coldframe is available, but a special seedbed will prove almost as good.

Need Fresh Delphinium Seed
Delphiniums belonging to the hybrid strains are considered by many the most important of this short list. They are the most critical in that only fresh seed, matured during the last month or two, will give abundant germination. This same seed held over for spring sowing under average storage conditions will have lost much of its vitality, and while that may not appear as a serious loss, it nevertheless is important because the seeds representing the most delicate colors and the most desirable plants are the ones with the weakest constitutions.

Pansies sown in early August, even if somewhat neglected once they have germinated, can be counted on to give a continuous spring, summer and fall display next year if transplanted to the garden early next spring. Framed commercial plants moved while in bloom receive such a serious setback that they cannot be relied on to last much beyond the spring season.

Oriental Poppies are best sown in small pots sunk into the coldframe so that they may be transplanted to the garden next spring. Otherwise they must remain where sown until they have reached their dormant stage next summer.

Hollyhocks Effective
Hollyhocks are not nearly so much appreciated as their beauty warrants. They are vigorous growers, from five to seven feet tall, and lend themselves to imposing garden effects. Their upright growth gives them a stately appearance, and spaced from two to three feet apart they are one of the best plants for presenting an attractive background to beds and borders. A single row gives an effective dividing line, and for that purpose the bed need not be wider than two feet.

Although the double varieties are usually considered biennials, the plants are often best during the third year when anywhere from six to a dozen blooming spikes may grace them. They also are very effective as clumps in the larger garden or planted as corner accents in smaller ones.

Gambling With Late Snap Beans

Weather records maintained since 1899 indicate that the first killing frost of autumn can be expected in this region around October 10 to 30, with October 20 to 25 close to the probable date. Of course, an unusually early frost may nip tender crops in late September; and the first hard freeze may be delayed into early November.

These facts about fall weather offer a fairly accurate basis on which to judge the last safe date for planting snap beans in the home garden. Several excellent varieties reach edible size as green beans in 50 to 60 days after planting. Therefore, 60 days from August 16 is October 15. In other words, snap beans planted today should, if kept thriving, be in production before the first damaging frost arrives. Thereafter, some simple protection on threatening nights may carry the bearing plants through until early November.

Three practices are stressed with this late planting to avoid loss of valuable time in bringing the plants into production. First, prepare a mellow but firm seed bed and keep the soil moist over the row until germination is completed. Dry soils delay germination several days while hard soil crusts may prevent the tender cotyledons from pushing their way through the surface. Next, if the garden or planted as corner accents in smaller ones.

Sweet William needs no recommendation. It is well known and greatly appreciated where colorful plants eighteen inches tall are wanted for a May and June display in beds and borders. They are available as seed in several good colors, and as a general rule the single-flowered sorts are considered superior to those bearing double blooms.

Tips on Starting
Forget-me-nots (Myosotis) and English daisies (Bellis) are best in cooler sections, as they quickly decline where hot summer weather is the rule. Myosotis alpestris and its varieties are spring bloomers and of biennial nature but palustris, a perennial, flowers from May until frost if it has a cool, half-shaded position and a moderately moist loam soil.

All summer sowings must receive regular watering to keep the soil uniformly moist at least until the seeds have germinated. Shading the soil surface by means of bur-lap stretched over the frame is needed to maintain a fairly uniform degree of soil moisture. Thinning the seedlings before they begin to crowd one another is also important for the development of sturdy plants. The seedbed must, of course, have good drainage and the soil should be of average fertility. A good supply of humus will mix with the soil encourages a good root system in addition to its ability to retain moisture for a longer period than soil alone.

soil is not fertile and otherwise adequate to hasten growth, apply a fertilizer containing a fair percentage of nitrogen. And third, do not allow the plants to stakeen growth even for a few days for lack of water. Irrigate whenever the soil is dry.

Early frosts are not difficult to circumvent in the home garden, particularly with low row crops like bunch beans. Stakes at intervals of six to ten feet, extending a foot or slightly more above the plant tops, provide an easy support over which to spread heavy paper, oilcloth or other protective covering. If a wire is stretched tightly from stake to stake the supports will be more efficient.

Many enterprising gardeners build light wooden frames for such purposes, using 1x1 1/2-inch materials. The frames are then covered with building paper. If they are three to four feet wide, they may be set up in roof-form over each row. Such frames are handy to ward off sun from newly set transplants, for protecting crops in spring, for keeping birds from maturing peas and numerous other roles.

The extra late snap bean crop is a valuable contribution to the family food supply. First, it brings welcome late food at a time when fresh
